results is largely overshadowed by woman suffrage. Tammany wants to win a district attorney in New York, and anti-Tammany wants to keep the district attorney away from the wigwam. It is an important thing to New York, but not very convincing, as to political prospects, in the view of the rest of the country.

In Massachusetts the conservative Republicans are supporting Samuel W. McCall for governor against Governor Walsh, Democrat. The outcome will be construed as suggestive of political tendencies in general, for both sides have been willing to give the contest a national tone and quality. Sharing the greeting with the local girl was Lawrence Grossmith, the celevated English comedian. Charles Judels, of bubbling wit, and Quenting of dancers as ever lifted a pump. Comely and graceful girls embellished the centerpieces of mirth, and two character comedians were added as good measure. All was served with a quantity of Jerome Kern's "magic melodies."

Which had little difficulty changing the customary composure of our best people into an unceasing ruffie of shaking shoulders and shuffling feet.

"Nobody Home" concerns the unexpleted invasion of America by Freddie Popple, of Ippleton, in the north of England. He comes with a gun, a large apple, a "man," and a wealth of pure Britonish humor that's infectious. Being refused accommodations at his brother's hotel, Popple is rescued from sleeping in a gutter by Tony Miller, prima donna of the Winter Garden, who sends him off to her own apartment. There his troubles multiply, but kind-hearted Tony finally extricates him via the sentiment route.
